Michelin Motorsport Contingency Posting

“Michelin Efficient Performance Award”

Michelin Motorsport will continue its contingency program intended to promote efficient use of tires during a race in the IMSA WeatherTech Sports Car Championship series. The award will recognize those teams who make best usage of their resources and continuing the pursuit of sustainability goals in motorsports.

The following classes will be eligible:

- LMP2
- LMP3
- GTD PRO
- GTD

For the listed classes, Michelin will calculate an efficiency score for each car based on number of race laps completed and number of Michelin slick race tires used in the race. The official result will be determined by using IMSA Timing and Scoring data (# of laps completed) and the Michelin Motorsports RFID system (# of tires used). Only championship points awarded races will be calculated towards this program.

Following are eligibility details:

- Awarded based on the total laps completed and the number of Michelin slick tires used in championship points awarded races
- Calculation of tires used will be only for Michelin slick tires based on RFID data captured during the race.
- Complete 80% or more of the Race laps at time of calculation (mid-year and end of season)
- Ties decided by highest place in Team Points standing

The Michelin Efficient Performance Award will recognize the entrant for the car in each eligible class with the best efficiency score. Award will be presented twice during the season as follows:

- Mid-year award comprised of $5,000 in tire credit to be used during the 2023 IMSA season.
- The cumulative full season award will be a $10,000 tire credit to be used for the following IMSA season.

The mid-year tire credits will be presented at the next event after the mid-season point defined below:

ELIGIBLE CLASS	TOTAL RACES	MID SEASON
LMP2	7	Through Laguna Seca
LMP3	7	Through Watkins Glen
